REGULATIONS MADE UNDER THE POLICE ACT, 1946

1. In these regulations,—

- (a) "council" means council of a village or of a county, township or town not having a board, and includes the trustees of a police village; and
- (b) "police force" means a police force established under Part II of the Act.

PART I

DISCIPLINE

2. This part, except regulation 4, does not apply to a police force under a board.

3. In this part "chief constable" includes, where no chief constable has been appointed, the head of the council.

4. In a police force there shall be published a code of offences against discipline contained in appendix A (herein called the "code").

5. A member of the police force against whom a report or complaint has been made accusing him of an offence against the code shall forthwith be informed by the chief constable in writing of the exact charge against him.

6. The written charge shall disclose an offence against the code and give such details of time and place as to leave the accused under no misapprehension as to the offence with which he is charged.

7. The written charge, in form 1, and the report or complaint on which the charge is founded and all reports thereon, whether confidential or otherwise, or copies thereof shall be handed or sent as soon as practicable to the accused, who shall acknowledge receipt thereof in writing.

8. The accused may offer an explanation to the chief constable orally or in writing.

9. Where the chief constable is satisfied with the explanation of the accused he may dismiss the charge but if he is not so satisfied the accused shall state in writing upon form 1 whether he admits or denies the charge.

10. Where the accused admits the charge the chief constable may forthwith impose the punishment provided by regulation 15 but subject to approval of the council as provided in regulation 13.

11.—(1) Where the accused denies the charge the chief constable shall order the accused to appear before him at a fixed time and place and the accused may state in writing the names of witnesses he desires to have present at the hearing.

(2) Any witnesses who are members of the police force shall be ordered to attend; and any witnesses who are not members of the police force shall be given due notice by the chief constable of the time and place of the hearing and that their attendance is desired.

(3) At the hearing before the chief constable the accused shall have an opportunity of hearing the evidence against him and of cross-examining the witnesses, calling witnesses in his defence and presenting his argument; but if he absconds or refuses or neglects without good and sufficient cause to attend the hearing at the time and place fixed the case may be decided in his absence.

(4) The accused may have another serving member of the force selected by himself to assist him in presenting his case before the chief constable or where there is an appeal, before the council.

12. The decision of the chief constable shall be written upon form 1 and forthwith served upon the accused who shall acknowledge receipt thereof in writing.

13.—(1) The decision of the chief constable shall be,—

- (a) to dismiss the charge; or
- (b) to find the accused guilty and award a punishment under regulation 15.

(2) Any punishment shall be subject to approval of the council; and the council may alter or confirm the punishment.

14.—(1) A member of a police force who feels aggrieved by the decision of the chief constable may appeal to the council against the decision by serving notice in writing upon the chief constable within seven days from the time of service of the decision.

(2) The council hearing the appeal shall enquire into the facts in the presence of the accused who shall have an opportunity of cross-examining witnesses, calling witnesses in his defence and presenting his argument.

(3) The council shall determine whether or not the accused is guilty of the offence charged and if guilty may confirm the punishment awarded by the chief constable or impose any other punishment under regulation 15.

(4) The hearing of the appeal shall, if required by the accused, be open to the public; but where the council is of the opinion that a public hearing would be detrimental to the administration of justice it may direct that the hearing be in camera.

15.—(1) A member of a police force guilty of an offence against the code may be punished by,—

- (a) dismissal;
- (b) being required to resign forthwith or at such date as may be ordered;
- (c) reduction in rank;

- (e) reprimand by the chief constable.

(2) A reduction in pay shall be limited to a definite period, not to exceed 12 months, stated in the decision by which the punishment is imposed.

16.—(1) There shall be kept in his office by the chief constable a disciplinary report book in which he shall cause to be entered, directly it comes to his knowledge, every report or complaint alleging an offence against the code by a member of the police force, other than an anonymous allegation unsupported by evidence, together with the result of his inquiry and any disciplinary action taken in consequence.

No. 11

Speech from the Throne

THE HONOURABLE THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR was pleased to open the Third Session of the Twenty-second Legislature on Thursday, March 6th last, with the following speech from the throne:

Mr. Speaker and Members of the Legislative Assembly:

As you assemble for the Third Session of the Twenty-second Legislature of the Province of Ontario, may I take the opportunity to express my pleasure on meeting you here for the first time. I wish to extend my personal greetings to each one of you and offer you my best wishes for the successful discharge of the duties for which you were elected.

Since last you met, the resumption of peacetime pursuits throughout our province has moved steadily forward notwithstanding the disturbing conditions elsewhere throughout the world. There have been difficulties, as was to be expected. The unfortunate industrial disputes last year greatly retarded some lines of production but there is good reason to hope for more stable conditions this year. The release of wartime controls has shifted some problems from the Dominion to the Provincial Government. Shortages of all kinds continue to impede commercial expansion, and individual activities in many fields. Adjustment of population in certain areas where the change from war to peace production has changed employment demands has only taken place to a very limited extent.

Constructive measures to deal with some of these questions will be submitted for your approval as well as amendments to existing statutes, but the volume of legislation during the present Session will not approach that of last year when no less than 111 public bills and 34 private measures received legislative approval.

My government is continuing its generous support of elementary and secondary education. In 1947 government grants will equal those paid in 1946. Generous support will also be extended to public libraries throughout the province.

Now that the rehabilitation training of ex-service personnel appears to have passed its peak, the Government will acquire some of the training centres and use them for advanced technological training for civilians and as trade schools for apprentices.

Further steps are to be taken to equalize educational opportunity. A subsidy for transportation will be offered to students who live at a considerable distance from the institutions of higher learning which they wish to attend. Greater assistance is also to be offered for the transportation of pupils to secondary schools. An experimental class is being undertaken to determine the possibilities of giving useful education to children of very limited mental ability. Adult education is to be brought into closer co-ordination with the physical fitness programme of the Department of Education. In this joint programme, citizenship and leadership training will be emphasized. It will also be expanded to embrace recreation along the lines so successfully developed already as part of the physical fitness training.

To meet the urgent demand for additional teachers, the Department of Education will co-operate with the universities in providing special summer courses to qualify additional teachers throughout the province.

During the past year Ontario agriculture has made a tremendous contribution to the food requirements of the hungry people of Britain and of Europe. The value of agricultural production in this province in 1946 was the greatest in our history, reaching a total of $733,000,000 as compared with $687,000,000 in 1945, which was the previous record up to that time. Of this total production, $232,000,000 was the value of our field crops, and the other half billion dollars was represented very largely by processed and manufactured farm products, such as beef, bacon, and pork products, lamb and mutton, eggs and poultry, milk, butter and cheese, all of which are so essential to the feeding of the world's population, and which figure very largely for that reason in the export trade of Canada. The leading place which Ontario occupies in Canadian agriculture is indicated by the fact that of the 23 major farm products of Canada, Ontario led in the production of 17 of these.

Throughout the whole province, the Junior Farmer organization continues to show rapid growth and development. This association is now recognized as one of the most valuable in Ontario. There are now over 200 Junior Clubs and Institutes, with every county organized and with units also in three of the Northern Districts. The Junior Farmer organization is proving a splendid training ground for the future leaders of agriculture, and it is gratifying to learn of the extent to which these young leaders are being absorbed into the Boards of Directors of the Senior Farm organizations.

So that we may maintain our present markets and secure new export outlets for our farm products, the emphasis in all departmental activities is being placed on higher quality, lower costs of production, and improved methods of marketing. Towards these ends the best efforts of the Department of Agriculture and all its institutions with their trained staffs are being directed. Agriculture in Ontario has reason to look to the future with faith and confidence.

It will be of interest to all our people to know that there was greater mining activity in Northern Ontario last year than in any previous year. The evidence of this lay in the largest number of mining claims ever recorded, a greater volume of provincial assays and a higher demand for geological maps, reports and blueprints. All of this has been at the same time a source of great encouragement as well as a heavy strain upon the Department of Mines.

A minimum of twelve survey parties will be placed in the field this coming season, notwithstanding the dearth of qualified leaders and attendants.

The Department will assist in the restoration of the mining of gold and of base metals, as well as the output of industrial minerals, including clay products and building materials. Activities in the latter field are now greater than at any time in the history of Ontario mining, and promise to make new records during the coming year.

Not only in mining and agriculture but in all other productive activities my Government places the utmost emphasis upon scientific research as an aid to the most effective use of our great resources.

In agriculture this has been recognized by a substantial expansion of the staff and facilities for research at the Ontario Agricultural College, the Ontario Veterinary College, the Horticultural Experimental Station at Vineland, and other similar institutions. Significant progress has already been made with research in regard to animal diseases.

In addition to very constructive activities of its own, the Ontario Research Commission has brought together Advisory Committees composed of representatives of the research agencies in agriculture, mines, soils, forestry, wild life and fisheries. As a result of these activities, there is for the first time effective integration of research work now being done, and a new appreciation of the gaps which must be filled in our present research programmes.

You will be asked to approve expenditures for specific research projects, and for the distribution of up-to-date technical information to industry throughout the province, under joint plans of the Ontario Research Foundation and the Department of Planning and Development. Plans will also be presented for the assistance of smaller industries by the organization of trade research associations on a co-operative basis.

Legislation will be introduced to re-codify The Securities Act (1945) and the regulations thereunder as a result of experience in administering the 1945 Act. Subject to the overriding provisions of this legislation you will be asked to consider other legislation governing separate groups engaged in the investment business.

Since the last meeting of this Legislature, the important task of reclassifying establishments formerly classified in every case as hotels, into hotels, taverns and public houses, has been carried out and the regulations governing new and old types of licences have been settled. The Liquor Licence Act was brought into effect as of January 1st, 1947, and since then the issuance of banquet and entertainment permits on a substantial scale has already resulted in a reduced and more temperate consumption of alcoholic beverages at banquets and entertainments given by a wide variety of organizations throughout the province. It is anticipated that, when the new licences are issued in municipalities of over 50,000, a corresponding improvement will result from the consumption of beverages legally and under control upon licensed premises.

Under The Police Act, 1946, a survey was made leading to the designation of all urban areas throughout the province other than cities and towns where policing responsibility was to be undertaken locally. The regulations under the Act were also brought into force. Thirty-one municipalities in the province have availed themselves of the provisions of this Act to enter into agreements with the Commissioner of Police to discharge the policing responsibilities of such municipalities by engaging the services of a detachment of the Provincial Police. Amending legislation will be introduced to clarify the circumstances under which the province will enter into further agreements of this type; to prohibit subversive activities among police forces; to create, on behalf of local police associations, the right to collective bargaining between the association and the employing municipality with arbitration; to outlaw improper affiliations and strikes on the part of those employed in police departments.

A contract has been entered into between the province and the Canadian General Electric Company Limited, whereby that company will install and maintain the frequency modulated radio communication system of the Ontario Provincial Police Force. This system will involve the establishment of eleven 250-watt broadcasting stations and thirty-one 60-watt broadcasting stations. In addition to the stations themselves, the police cars of the Force will be equipped with sending and receiving sets. This system will completely cover Southern Ontario with two-way communication between central broadcasting points and the police areas, and between these and the police cars, while within smaller areas communication will be maintained between the cars and the stations, as well as from car to car. The study necessary to prepare for the extension of police radio communication suitable to the needs of Northern Ontario is now in progress.

Legislation will be introduced to revise The Fire Departments' Act, and to provide for collective bargaining between those employed by the Municipal Fire Departments and the Municipal employer, with arbitration.

With a view to preventing disasters by fire in Ontario hotels, legislation will be introduced requiring suitable safety standards in hotels.

Legislation will be introduced reserving the use of white canes to blind persons; regulating the terms and conditions upon which credit may be extended by way of conditional sale of articles in the province; and providing for simplified methods of disposition of unclaimed articles.

During the past year which was the first full year of highway construction and restoration since the war, a record mileage of pavement and other hard surface roads was completed. A new King's Highway, approximately 100 miles in length, was pushed through from the Trans-Canada Highway to Red Lake in record time. It is now in use as a winter road. It will be surfaced during the coming season. The northern and tourist areas generally will derive great benefit from the new four-lane Toronto-Barrie Highway upon which notable progress has already been made. Every part of the province has been assisted by a programme of highway improvement and extension. Further new projects will be undertaken as men and materials become available.

Municipal governments have received more generous subsidies and new proposals will be made for further aid and encouragement in carrying out their extremely important road programmes.

The renovation and repair of public buildings, including many which have been on loan to the Dominion Government for war purposes, has proceeded and will be continued, along with such new construction as may be undertaken with due regard for housing needs and the shortages of material and labour.

Ontario municipalities have continued the steady reduction of their gross debenture debts by amounts and percentages which have not been equalled in any other province, and in consequence are obtaining lower interest rates than at any previous time. They are in a sound position to make necessary capital expenditures. Their total tax levies of 1945 were $6,000,000 less than in 1939, and were relatively small in 1946, due, in the main, to the provincial educational grants and subsidies. The one mill subsidy amounting to $3,170,000 was continued in 1946 in addition to total educational grants to the municipalities amounting to $29,500,000.

In 1947 it is intended to extend still further the schools which the Department of Municipal Affairs conducts for the instruction of municipal officials.

A new Vital Statistics Act will be introduced to provide an improved procedure for the registration of births, marriages and deaths. This Department will also introduce the latest techniques for statistical analysis.

The rehabilitation of those who are committed to Ontario prisons and reformatories has been emphasized in the administration of the new Department of Reform Institutions established last Session.

Great advances have been made in the training of officers, the provision of well qualified teachers, vocational instructors and other staff, as well as in the classification and segregation of young prisoners, training and disciplinary practices and the provision of useful work and healthy recreation.

Although it is still difficult to provide adequate building accommodation, this Department has established a very successful training school for younger boys at Galt, and has permanently acquired two properties at Cobourg as a training school for girls.

A section of the former army camp at Brampton has been set aside for young prisoners with very satisfactory results. This year the Department hopes to begin the construction of industrial farms and other buildings which will replace the common jails as well as a large new building to replace the Andrew Mercer Reformatory for women.

The Department of Reform Institutions has been assisted very greatly in its work by voluntary organizations of interested citizens and it seeks their continued support in its plans to give active and direct help in re-establishing those who have been discharged from reform institutions.

With the expiration of the National Wartime Labour Relations Regulations on March 31st, 1947, my Government will be called upon to resume jurisdiction over labour relations and such steps as are called for will be taken to meet this situation.

Amendments will be proposed to The Hours of Work and Vacations with Pay Act, 1944, with respect to the rates of vacation pay, and also to The Workmen's Compensation Act, to cover all occupational diseases attributable to employment, to increase the pensions of widows and children, as well as the pensions for total disability, and also to effect other desirable improvements.

To keep pace with our rapid industrial growth, the Inspection and Examining Boards have been greatly expanded to protect and insure the health and welfare of industrial workers. The Department's work in vocational and apprenticeship training will be energetically continued in co-operation with the Department of Education. A minimum wage order for female workers in industry has been prepared and will soon be brought into effect. In many trades and industries, minimum wage rates and working conditions have been established under The Industrial Standards Act.

During the past year plans for industrial construction to a total value of $43,000,000 have been examined and approved. From this and other experience of the Department of Labour, it is evident that there is great confidence in the industrial future of this province. This confidence offers a sound basis for co-operation between labour and management in the solution of their common problems.

The Planning Act, 1946, is being used extensively in all parts of the province, particularly where industrial expansion is taking place. Thirty planning areas have been defined and 800 sub-division plans have been submitted for approval. Experience in administration of the Act suggests certain amendments which will be introduced with the object of improving procedure and meeting special conditions which arise.

The Conservation Authorities Act is also giving good results and minor amendments will be introduced.

The Trade and Industry Branch of the Department of Planning and Development, in the closest co-operation with Ontario House, has brought about the establishment of a number of British and other industries in Ontario. Its services continue to be widely used by industry and will be still further extended.

The Department of Health has been confronted with the common problem of shortages, both in hospital and mental hospital accommodation, as well as in the supply of doctors, nurses, and other necessary staff. One project, that of a nine-months training course for nursing assistants has been sufficiently successful to warrant its continuance for a further period of trial.

Some extension of the Department's activities in the control of tuberculosis and industrial hygiene is planned for the present year, the former by an extension of the programme of X-ray examinations. Further extension throughout the province of the unit type of local health administration is only limited by lack of staff, particularly public health nurses.

The Department proposes to assist the Canadian Red Cross Society in its plan to provide free blood serum to Ontario Hospitals, by the provision and maintenance of the necessary clinical buildings.

The problem of providing adequate accommodation and necessary treatment for the mentally sick is still one of major concern. A substantial start has been made upon the erection of a new hospital school for the mentally defective in Smiths Falls. It is hoped that it will be possible to increase the numbers of the female staff, particularly nurses, during the year. Diagnostic services at the community level are being provided to a number of the larger centres throughout the province.

The Department of Public Welfare has made provision in the Unemployment Relief Regulations to alleviate distress to some older persons who require special home care by allowing payment up to $40.00 a month to individuals who will provide care for these persons in private homes.

To encourage and assist in the creation of additional accommodation for the aged, legislation will be introduced to enable a larger provincial contribution to the capital cost of the erection of houses of refuge.

Administrative efficiency within the Department of Public Welfare has been greatly improved by departmental reorganization and legislation will be introduced to continue this process.

During the first year of the new Department of Travel and Publicity, Ontario has received the largest number of tourists in its history. It is estimated that visitors from the United States alone expended upwards of $130,000,000 in this province. The Department has been aggressive on the one hand in bringing Ontario to the attention of prospective visitors throughout United States and Canada, and on the other hand in improving the accommodation available for the visitors.

During the coming year, establishments which serve tourists will be classified and licensed. Reception centres, so successful last year, will be extended to the western part of the province and the promotional and publicity activities will be intensified.

A new and successful approach to Ontario's tourist development was the inauguration during this past winter of a vigorous winter sports programme, the first step in an effort to widen the appeal of this province to include year-round vacations.

The Department of Lands and Forests now also administers those activities connected with Game and Wild Life and thus combines two Departments which previously dealt with different aspects of our forest resources. This has given new impetus to the conservation and effective use of those great resources. My Government is recognizing the importance of these activities by proposing the highest expenditure in the history of this province for the combined work of the Department of Lands and Forests and the Division of Fish and Wild Life.

New activities include reforestation nurseries at Kemptville and Fort William; the renovation and rebuilding of fish hatcheries; commercial fishery studies and experiments on the Great Lakes; education and publicity and forest fire prevention; courses of instruction for guides at the Ranger School; the zoning of traffic and the provision of a specialist in the fur trade.

Recognizing the magnitude of the pulp and paper industry, as well as the lumbering industry, in the economy of this province, my Government will introduce a forest management bill which will place all companies on an equal footing in their forest management obligations.

The Ontario Royal Commission on Forestry and its staff of expert engineers and foresters have completed the most thorough examination ever made of our forest areas and practices. It has concluded its public hearings throughout Ontario and is now preparing its report from which the most valuable recommendations may be expected in regard to the future management of the forests as a continuing source of employment, wealth and pleasure.

I know that you all share the general satisfaction that so many Civil Servants have returned from military duties and have been re-established in the Public Service of this province. It is also gratifying to learn that of the new male employees appointed during the past year, 82 per cent were veterans.

A complete revision of the salary scale of the Civil Service has been effected to compensate for increased living costs, and reclassification has been completed in accordance with new rates of remuneration. It is proposed at this Session to revise the superannuation provisions of the Public Service Act and to follow this with other improvements with the view, not only to the maintenance of satisfactory conditions of employment and security of tenure but also to increased efficiency of the service and the attraction to its ranks of men and women of the highest capacities and qualifications.

It is with great regret that I mention the death during the past year of several public servants with long years of service, some of whom occupied the highest departmental positions. The gratitude of the people of Ontario is due to them for their loyal and faithful work, and also to those whose service is being terminated by superannuation.

The hopes expressed in this Legislature last year that there would be general agreement between the Dominion and all Provincial Governments defining their responsibilities and allocating appropriate taxing powers, have unfortunately not been realized. It will be recalled that my Government was not only the first to ask for a Dominion-Provincial Conference to settle tax problems, to provide adequate social security measures and otherwise to combine the constitutional powers of all governments for the general welfare of all Canadians, but it has also been most insistent that such general agreement is essential if the Canadian people are to receive the full benefit of the great resources which we possess.

Because of the refusal of the Dominion Government to reconvene the general Conference which adjourned last May, there will be no new agreement between the Government of Ontario and the Dominion Government to replace the War-time Tax Agreement which expires on March 31st. The Government of Ontario will therefore be called upon to raise its own required revenues and there will be presented to you for your consideration proposals for meeting the financial requirements of my Government during the coming fiscal year.

In addition to legislation already mentioned, bills will be introduced for various other purposes or to amend present Acts for the good and welfare of this province.

The Public Accounts for the last complete fiscal year and the estimates for the year 1947-48 will be submitted to you later for your consideration and approval.

In conclusion, I wish to express the hope that Divine Providence may so guide your deliberations that your work here will promote the general welfare and happiness of all the people of Ontario.
